I. INTRODUCTION

Plaintiff REGINA MANANTAN (“Plaintiff”) filed the instant action in an attempt to forestall a lawfully noticed foreclosure sale of the real property located at 91 Haddock Street, Foster City, California 94404 (the “Property”).

The Second Amended Complaint (“SAC”) was filed in advance of defendants demurrer to the First Amended Complaint. Here again, the SAC remains vulnerable to demurrer as it contains irrelevant factual allegations and legal theories that are generally contrary to California law, none of which even come close to meeting minimum pleading requirements with respect to Defendants WELLS FARGO BANK, N.A. dba AMERICA’S SERVICING COMPANY and U.S. BANK, N.A. AS TRUSTEE SUCCESSOR BY MERGER TO LASALLE BANK, NATIONAL ASSOCIATION, AS TRUSTEE FOR MORGAN STANLEY MORTGAGE LOAN TRUST 2007-7AX (hereinafter “Moving Defendants”).

As discussed below, Plaintiff’s legal theories as to the effect of the securitization process have been rejected by California Court of Appeal. Moreover, Plaintiff’s Homeowners’ Bill of Rights (“HBOR”) claims, now embedded within the second cause of action for wrongful foreclosure instead of separately pleaded are each defective because (1) they represent and improper attempt to apply the HBOR retroactively; (2) they are conclusory such that they do not state a cognizable claim against Moving Defendants; and (3) they each overlook the fact that Plaintiff received a loan modification in 2009 and failed to plead facts that she underwent a material change in financial circumstances to justify further modification review. The Opposition fails to cure the deficiencies discussed below and more fully in the moving papers. Accordingly, Moving Defendants respectfully request the Court sustain their demurrer.

II. LEGAL ARGUMENT

A. Plaintiff Lacks Standing to Challenge the Assignment Based on the “Closing Date” of the Securitized Trust

25
26
27
28

Plaintiff further challenges the foreclosure process based upon the assignment of deed from MERS to US Bank on June 12, 2009. (SAC ¶ 60.) This theory is likewise contrary to California law, which holds that a borrower lacks standing to challenge an assignment. In the moving

1 papers, Defendants cite to Saterbak, which is the mos recent appellate case criticizing the Glaski
2 decision. The Saterbak Court held that Glaski v. Bank of America, N.A. (2013) 218 Cal.App.4th 3 1079 is wrong: a post-closing-date transfer of a loan into a New York securitized trust is voidable, 4 not void, so the borrower has no standing to challenge it. (Saterbak v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, 5 N.A. (2016) 2016 DAR 2565.) Plaintiffs' opposition fails to address Saterbak.

6 As stated in that case, "As stated in that case, "Yvanova recognized borrower standing only 7 where the defect in the assignment renders the assignment void, rather than voidable. (Saterbak, 8 245 Cal.App. 4th at 815.) Accordingly, Yvanova does not assist Plaintiff unless she can show that 9 the alleged defects which rendered the assignment of her note or deed of trust void under New 10 York law, which she claims governs. Plaintiff states no such disabling defect and relies upon 11 Glaski v. Bank of America (2013) 218 Cal.App.4th 1079, for the contrary position.

12 Glaski did hold that § 7-2.4 voids a post-closing date transfer of a loan into a New York 13 securitized trust. (Id. at 1097.) However, Yvanova expressly refrained from endorsing that 14 holding. Indeed, virtually every other court has disagreed with Glaski on this point. Notably, 15 after a careful review of New York state court decisions under § 7-2.4, the Second Circuit 16 concluded that Glaski misinterpreted New York law, and it held that under § 7-2.4 an ultra vires 17 transfer is voidable by the trust beneficiaries only, not void or subject to attack by borrowers. (See 18 Rajamin, 757 F.3d at 88-90.) After Yvanova, a California Court of Appeal agreed with Rajamin, 19 pointing out that the only New York decision that Glaski had relied upon had since been reversed.
20 (Saterbak, 245 Cal.App. 4th at 815 & n. 5.)

21 Saterbak held that even applying held that even applying Yvanova's new rule, the 22 borrowers lacked standing to allege a wrongful foreclosure claim because the alleged post-closing 23 date assignments of their loans were merely voidable, not void. (Saterbak, 245 Cal. App. 4th at 24 815.) Because the supposedly defective transfer of the loan was at most voidable rather than void, 25 Plaintiff lacks standing to challenge it even under Yvanova. Hence, the demurrer to Plaintiff's 26 SAC is properly sustained.

27 The Opposition alternatively argues that the Homeowners Bill of Rights grants standing to 28 a borrower to challenge an assignment. However, the most recent foreclosure of the property at 1 issue in this case began with the recordation of the Notice of Default on June 23, 2011. (RJN, Ex.

2 12.) Thus, the foreclosure began well in advance of the enactment of the HOBR and that statute is 3 not retroactive such that Plaintiffs can challenge an assignment recorded in June 2009. (RJN, Ex.
4 3.) Here, the statute does not apply because the HOBR was not effective until January 1, 2013.
5 This is fatal to the claim, even if Plaintiff had standing because of the strong presumption against 6 retroactivity in the absence of such express language. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 3; Cal. Code Civ.
7 Pro. § 3.) “Generally, ‘[t]he presumption is very strong that a statute was not meant to act 8 retrospectively, [wherein] [i]t ought not receive such a construction unless the words used are so 9 clear, strong and imperative that no other meaning can be annexed to them, or unless the intention 10 of the legislature cannot be otherwise satisfied.’ ” (Yoshioka v. Superior Court (1997) 58 11 Cal.App.4th 972, 980, quoting U.S. Fidelity Co. v. Struthers Wells Co. (1908) 209 U.S. 306, 314.)

12 Indeed, the presumption against retroactive application is especially strong when 13 retroactive application would “increase a party’s liability for past conduct, or impose new duties 14 with respect to transactions already completed.” (Landgraf v. USI Film Products (1994) 511 U.S.
15 244, 280.) Accordingly, the demurrer is properly sustained without leave to amend.

16 B. Plaintiff’s First Cause of Action for Breach of Security Instrument Must fail

17 Plaintiff’s first cause of action alleges a breach of the Deed of Trust and fails for at least 18 two reasons: (1) the contract claim does not plead the essential terms of the contract’ and (2) the 19 cause of action fails to plead damages. The opposition erroneously states that defendants do not 20 contest they failed to send required notice; however, this evidence may not be submitted on a 21 demurrer challenge.

22 Rather, at the pleadings stage, Defendants assert that Plaintiffs cause of action states a 23 purported irregularity in the foreclosure process without showing requisite prejudice as required.
24 “We also note a plaintiff in a suit for wrongful foreclosure has generally been required to 25 demonstrate the alleged imperfection in the foreclosure process was prejudicial to the plaintiff’s 26 interests. (Melendrez v. D & I Investment, Inc., supra, 127 Cal.App.4th at p. 1258, 26 Cal.Rptr.3d 27 413; Knapp v. Doherty, (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th at p. 86, fn. 4.)

28 Prejudice is not presumed from “mere irregularities” in the process. (Fontenot v. Wells

1 Fargo Bank, N.A. (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 256, 272.) In addition, as the sale was completed, 2 Plaintiff must also plead tender in order to have standing to set aside the sale. She does not.

3 Based on the foregoing, Moving Defendants' demurrer to the first cause of action is 4 properly sustained.

5 C. Plaintiff's Second Cause of Action For Wrongful Foreclosure Fails

6 Plaintiff's Second Cause of Action for Wrongful Foreclosure is impermissibly conclusory 7 as to Moving Defendants but generally premised on the application of California's Homeowners' 8 Bill of Rights ("HBOR"). The Complaint alleges that the Notice of Default was statutorily 9 deficient under HBOR. As argued both in the moving papers and above, the Notice of Default in 10 connection with the foreclosure was recorded on June 23, 2011, well before HBOR was enacted in 11 January 2013. (RJN, Ex. 12.)

12 As for the HBOR claims substantively, they are entirely boilerplate and conclusory as to 13 Moving Defendants.

14 In her second cause of action, Plaintiff alleges, in conclusory fashion, that she submitted a 15 complete loan modification to Wells Fargo long before the recordation of the NOTS. (SAC ¶ 82.)
16 This conclusory statement is insufficient to state a claim without factual support. As stated in the 17 moving papers, and not discussed in the opposition, Plaintiff's bald allegation that she submitted a 18 "complete" loan modification – without any supporting factual allegations – is a conclusory 19 statement, and the Court does not rely on such assertions in evaluating the sufficiency of 20 Plaintiff's Complaint." (Woodring v. Ocwen Loan Servicing, LLC, 2013 WL 3558716 (C.D. Cal.
21 July 18, 2014); Stokes v. Citimortgage, Inc., 2014 WL 4359193 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 3, 2014.) Wells 22 Fargo is not obligated to provide a written determination on a loan modification application unless 23 the application is "complete". (Civ. Code § 2923.6(c).)

24 The opposition also fails to address the fact that Wells Fargo and Plaintiff did sign a loan 25 modification December 2009. (RJN, Ex. 6.) Here, Plaintiff's borrower's prior loan modification 26 triggers Civil Code Section 2923.6(g), which states as follows:

27 (g) In order to minimize the risk of borrowers submitting multiple applications for 28 first lien loan modifications for the purpose of delay, the mortgage servicer shall not be obligated to evaluate applications from borrowers who have already been

1 evaluated or afforded a fair opportunity to be evaluated for a first lien loan 2 modification prior to January 1, 2013, or who have been evaluated or afforded a 3 fair opportunity to be evaluated consistent with the requirements of this section, 4 unless there has been a material change in the borrower's financial circumstances 5 since the date of the borrower's previous application and that change is documented 6 by the borrower and submitted to the mortgage servicer.

7 However, Plaintiff does not disclose that she received a loan modification in December 8 2009 and was afforded a fair opportunity to be evaluated for a first lien modification. Based on 9 the foregoing, Moving Defendants' demurrer to the second cause of action is properly sustained.

10 As with the 2923.6 theory, Plaintiff's allegations of wrongful foreclosure based on 11 violation of Civil Code Section 2923.7 must fail as it is impermissibly conclusory. The cause of 12 action simply alleges the requirements of the code section, but then alleges no facts to suggest 13 who, how, or when Moving Defendants purportedly violated the requirements of Civil Code 14 Section 2923.7. The HOB claims are impermissibly boilerplate and conclusory as to Moving 15 Defendants and the demurrer is properly sustained on that ground.

16 D. Plaintiff's Third Cause of Action for Fraud Must Fail

17 Plaintiff's third cause of action once again challenges the foreclosure based on (1) 18 fraudulent inducement at origination and (2) on false mortgage assignment. The opposition 19 reveals a fundamental misunderstanding of the mortgage servicing process. For example, the 20 opposition's argument that "Wells Fargo never disclosed that they were not the lender authorized 21 to grant a loan modification nor that in order to grant one they would have to purchase Plaintiffs' 22 loan from the Trust 2007-7AX, at a financial loss" misses the point.

23 That a servicer is not the entity that actually grants a loan modification does not mean it is 24 not the proper entity to review and process a loan modification on behalf of the investor. Indeed, 25 loss mitigation activities are a common servicer activity. Thus, the argument that Wells Fargo 26 would need to purchase the loan back from the trust in order to process a loan modification simply 27 reveals a misunderstanding of the process. It does not state a claim for fraud. This flawed 28 argument is also insufficient to toll the clear statute of limitations bar. The assignment in this case was recorded on June 26, 2009. (RJN, Ex. 3.) Accordingly, any purported fraud related to the assignment is barred by the applicable three year statute of limitations. [Code of Civil

1 Procedure section 338, subdivision (d) three-year] limitations period,” governing fraud..]
2 (Thomson v. Canyon (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 594, 607.)

3 Moving defendants accept the Opposition’s argument that their fraud claim is not premised 4 on the securitization of the loan. As stated in the moving papers, this theory would fail in any 5 event.

6 The opposition fails to address the obvious flaw with the fraud claim – that Plaintiff agreed 7 that the loan could be sold when she executed the deed of trust.

8 20. Sale of Note; Change of Loan Servicer; Notice of Grievance. The Note or a partial interest in the Note 9 (together with this Security Instrument) can be sold one or more times without prior notice to Borrower. A sale might 10 result in a change in the entity (known as the "Loan Servicer") that collects Periodic Payments due under the Note 11 and this Security Instrument and performs other mortgage loan servicing obligations under the Note, this Security 12 Instrument, and Applicable Law. There also might be one or more changes of the Loan Servicer unrelated to a sale 13 of the Note. If there is a change of the Loan Servicer, Borrower will be given written notice of the change which will 14 state the name and address of the new Loan Servicer, the address to which payments should be made and any other 15 information RESPA requires in connection with a notice of transfer of servicing. If the Note is sold and thereafter 16 the Loan is serviced by a Loan Servicer other than the purchaser of the Note, the mortgage loan servicing obligations 17 to Borrower will remain with the Loan Servicer or be transferred to a successor Loan Servicer and are not assumed 18 by the Note purchaser unless otherwise provided by the Note purchaser.

14 (R.JN, Ex. 1, ¶ 20.) Based on the foregoing, Plaintiff’s fraud claim premised on the sale or 15 assignment of the loan is simply contrary to California law and without legal merit. As Plaintiff 16 agreed to this term as a condition to obtaining the loan, the Opposition’s premise that the loan was 17 somehow “modified” because it was transferred is without merit. Accordingly, the demurrer to 18 the fraud claim is properly sustained.

19 E. The Fourth Cause of Action for Violation of Business and Professions Code § 17200

20 Plaintiff’s UCL claim is based wholly on her other failed theories. Since those theories are 21 simply wrong under California law, Plaintiff’s UCL claim should be dismissed as well. (Glenn K.
22 Jackson Inc. v. Roe (9th Cir. 2001) 273 F.3d 1192, 1203 [where a plaintiff’s UCL claims are 23 predicated on the viability of another claim—as they are here—if the underlying claims fail, so 24 does the UCL claim]; Castaneda v. Saxon Mortg. Servs, Inc. (2010) 09-01124, 2010 WL 726903, 25 at *7 [dismissing UCL claim “entirely derivative of the previously claim in the complaint”].)
26 Plaintiff fails to state a predicate claim to animate the UCL. Here, as discussed above, each of the 27 causes of action upon which the UCL claim might rely, are contrary to California law or 28 deficiently pleaded. Accordingly, Plaintiff has not pleaded a predicate claim upon which her UCL

1 theory might rely. The Opposition's argument that defendants deliberately deceived Plaintiff by 2 not revealing it had a conflict of interest in negotiating a loan modification is meritless. Simply 3 because an investor chooses to delegate servicing responsibilities to another entity does not mean a 4 conflict of interest exists between the servicer and the investor. Relatedly, that a servicer 5 processes a loan modification application on behalf of an investor, does not mean that a loan 6 modification will not ultimately be approved by the investor. Thus, the arguments presented in 7 the opposition appear to reveal a fundamental misunderstanding of the role of a loan servicer.
8 Simple misunderstanding of an entities role is insufficient to create a cause of action.

9 The remainder of the arguments presented in the opposition lack factual support and go 10 beyond the scope of the Second Amended Complaint. Based on the foregoing authorities, the 11 demurrer is properly sustained.

12 F. The Fifth Cause of Action for Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress Fails

13 The SAC fails to allege Moving Defendants' outrageous conduct to support an IIED claim.
14 Further, the SAC points to no conduct of Moving Defendants, other than the rejected, generalized 15 and conclusory theories discussed herein. Plaintiff's theory that defendants had no right, title or 16 interest in the property is premised upon the flawed assignment theory and is properly rejected. In 17 addition, the SAC identifies no severe emotional distress which Plaintiff allegedly suffered that 18 was proximately caused by Moving Defendants. The demurrer is properly sustained as a result.

19 G. Plaintiff's Sixth Cause of Action to Set Aside Trustee's Sale Fails

20 As a general rule, a debtor cannot set aside the foreclosure based on irregularities in the 21 sale without also alleging tender of the amount of the secured debt. [Citations.]" (Shuster v. BAC 22 Home Loans Servicing, LP (2012) 211 Cal.App.4th 505, 512.) In the opposition, Plaintiff argues 23 the sale should be set aside because of purported fraud. However, the arguments in the demurrer 24 address Plaintiffs deficient and conclusory fraud theories.

25 Moreover, as discussed throughout, California law rejects Plaintiff's contention that the 26 sale is void, as alleged. (SAC ¶ 147.) The court should properly disregard this contention, which 27 is central to the allegations running through the entire SAC. Based on the foregoing, the demurrer 28 is properly sustained.

1 H. The Seventh Cause of Action for Slander of Title Fails

2 California Civil Code section 47’s privilege “bars all tort causes of action except malicious 3 prosecution.” (Jacob B. v. County of Shasta (2007) 40 Cal.4th 948, 960.) In particular, the 4 privilege bars a slander of title claim based on the recordation of the privileged document.
5 (Albertson v. Raboff (1956) 46 Cal.2d 375, 378-81.) Under Civil Code section 2924(d), the act on 6 which the Plaintiff bases her slander of title claim is privileged under section 47. Here, Plaintiff 7 alleges no facts raising any inference of malice.<sup>1</sup> In fact, the cause of action again appears based 8 Plaintiff’s erroneous theory that the foreclosure process was flawed because of the assignment and 9 that the subsequent sale of the property was void as a result. These allegations are simply contrary 10 to California law as explained herein. Plaintiff has not pled malice simply by asserting a 11 conclusory violation of California Civil Code Section 2923.5. As Plaintiff has no standing to 12 challenge the assignment, the slander of title theory must also fail. Accordingly, the slander of 13 title cause of action states no claim on which relief may be granted and the demurrer is properly 14 sustained.

15 I. Plaintiff’s Eighth Cause of Action for Quiet Title Fails

16 “It is settled in California that a mortgagor cannot quiet his title against the mortgagee 17 without paying the debt secured.” (Shimpones v. Stickney, (1934) 219 Cal. 637, 649; see Mix v.
18 Sodd, (1981) 126 Cal.App.3d 386, 390.) The opposition does not address this cause of action an 19 and the court may presume it abandoned

20 ///
21 ///
22 ///

26 <sup>1</sup> Kachlon v. Markowitz, 168 Cal.App.4th 316 (2008) holds that recordation of the notices of 27 default and sale are fall within only the conditional privilege of Civil Code § 47(c), not the absolute 28 privilege of §47(b). A factually supported averment of malice is sufficient to avoid dismissal based on privilege.

III. CONCLUSION

Plaintiff's SAC fails to state a cause of action as against Moving Defendants for all of the reasons discussed above. Moreover, each claim is independently deficient and subject to a demurrer. For the foregoing reasons, Moving Defendants' demurrer should be sustained and judgment entered in favor of Moving Defendants.
